CONTINUE PROGRAM FOR ROADSIDE BEAUTY IN VA.

Richmond, Va.- The Associated Clubs of Virginia for Roadside Development—guardians of highway beauty for the past 17 years— are mustering forces for another step in their continuing campaign to make the Commonwealth's landscapes the most beatuiful in America.

Mrs. Warner Snider, of Leesburg, president of the clubs which have a combined membership of 80,000 women (and a sprinkling of men) said today that she is much encouraged by the groundwork her members have undertaken at the "local level."

Chairmen to pursue legislative and conservation aims of the Associated Clubs are being chosen in every metropolitan and rural area of the state.

A specific target, according to Mrs. Snider, will be an amendment to the Outdoor Advertising Act to speed up its enforcement. This will be sought at the next session of the General Assembly.

The Associated Clubs have had a long-time struggle with the Outdoor Advertising Act, passed at their insistence in 1938 and amended first in 1940. Subsequent amendments were made by the General Assembly of 1954, again at the request of the Associated Clubs, but enforcement has been snafued by a "grandfather clause" making some parts not applicable until 1959.

A formidable force, the Associated Clubs are made up of the members of the Garden Club of Virginia, the Virginia Federation of Women's Clubs, the Virginia Federation of Garden Clubs and the Virginia Federation of Home Demonstration Clubs.

While many of their goals seem a long way from attainment, the clubs have nonetheless been able to make outdoor advertisers conscious of their responsibility to the beauties of Virginia. In the first 15 years the Outdoor Advertising Act has been in force, the vigilance of the ladies has brought about the removal of 235,744 illegal signs, Mrs. Snider said.

Virginia roadsides, in the Associated Clubs' view, embrace everything seen from the highways, including advertising signs, dumps and automobile graveyards, highway roadsides, trees and shrubs, front and back yards, stores, filling stations and other business establishments, farm yards, factories, garages, woodlands and meadows, landscape vistas, historic shrines and battlefields.

The clubs also support measures on highway safety, conservation, encouragement of tourist business, and preservation of Virginia's natural beauties and historic interests.

They want all allocations for highway and toll rond construction to include funds for landscaping. They would like to see annual appropriations for the planting, protection and care of native trees on all roadsides.

The aims are imposing and challenging, Mrs. Snider says, but with the support of 80,000 organized clubwomen, anything can happen. She is confident Virginia's roadsides someday will be "the most beautiful in America."

NEWS FOR VETERANS

Veterans starting summer school under the Korean GI Bill may have to wait until late in the summer term for their first GI allowance checks, since under the law it takes about two months for the money to reach them, Veterans Administration said.

For that reason, VA urged the veteran-trainees to bring along a "nest-egg" of their own to tide them over for the initial period.

Very often an entire summer semester may last no longer than two months, VA said.

Once the GI checks start coming they will cover every month of training completed, so long as veterans make sure their schools file monthly attendance certificates with the VA. VA gave these reasons for the length of time it takes to make initial GI allowance payments.

First, the law requires the allowances to be paid after the end of each month of training completed, and not before. Further, payment for an initial period of training of less than a full month may be deferred until the end of the following month. All that accounts for at least one month's delay.

And second, after the end of the month, the veteran must sign a certification stating he was attending class during the month. The school sends this certification to the VA. Usually, a veteran's check should go out within 20 days after the time VA receives the certification.

Colleges throughout the country have reported that many Korea veterans have been coming to school without sufficient funds to tide them over until they get their first GI allowance checks. This has created unnecessary hardships for many veteran-students.

NEW COURSE FOR TEACHERS AT WILLIAM AND MARY

Williamsburg, Va.- Virginia science teachers will get an opportunity this summer to stimulate their science lectures through a course offered by the College of William and Mary.

A workshop on materials and methods for teaching science will be offered for the first time during the College's summer session.

According to Dr. Keneth Cleeton, director of William and Mary's summer session, the workshop will help teachers "develop competency in providing meaningful and rich science experiences for pupils."

Lecture demonstrations, laboratory work, discussions, development of resource units, tours, shop work with hand tools and the use of extensive audio-visual materials will be featured in the course.

Dr. Cleeton said that opportunities would be afforded for "trying out" science materials and methods on pupils who are enrolled in the Summer Laboratory School.

"One of the main features of the portunity to develop curriculum materials Workshop," he said, "will be an opterials which provide for the integration of science with other school subjects."

Not So Bad

An old farmer was moody regarding the ravages of the flood.

"Hiram, your pigs are all washed down the creek," a neighbor told him sympathetically.

"How about Flaherty's pigs?" asked the farmer.

"They're gone too.

"And Larsen's?"

"Yes."

"Humph!" ejaculated the farmer, cheering up. "Ain't as bad as I thought."

Father Darkleaf

By c. h. r.

Because I am back in business at the old stand, for my favorite column, "Hobbies," is again on the boards. For some reason, this interesting journal dropped publication last fall, and we missed its weekly visits. Then of a sudden(ly) Mrs. Brightleaf found it on the stands again with the June issue, and now I can browse through its many pages of what goes on in the line of "collecting" and hobby-ing. Not that I have done too badly with my basement "museum" at times in the interim. For instance, I just secured a "commission" as a "Colonel" in "The Confederate Navy." It is a handsome document and pledges me to praise the valor of the Deep South, consume a fair portion of black-eyed peas, collards, greens, sow belly, pot likker, chitterlings, and corn squeezin's, pay respectful homage to our fair Southern belles, save my Confederate money and harass the carpetbaggers.

Today was Flag Day, and business firms along Main Street got out their sidewalk flags. But it was found that the Post Office Building was flying the flag, because they didn't have one. The old one was no longer in usable condition, and the Federal Government can afford to invest in a new flag.

At hand is a copy of a booklet: "Improvement in High School Education in Virginia, 1944 - 1954. It is most interesting. We note that in the ten year period covered, approximately 4,200 new elementary classrooms and 1,400 new high school classrooms were built in Virginia. Due to school population gains, it is estimated that 4,300 more classrooms will be needed in Virginia in the next six years. We note that capital outlay for schools in Virginia was $817,092 in 1944, but in 1954 had jumped to $57,295,397. In the decade, Virginia spent $104,-000,000 for capital outlay for its schools, and the end is not in sight. We note a great increase in the number of teachers holding degrees. It is now over 70 per cent; the salary category the average was $1,648 in 1943-44; had jumped to $2,961 in 1953-54. In only one category did we find a decline, and that in the quality of the units required for graduation. We do not have enough mathematics and history are taught in Virginia high schools. In spite of our expanded effort, Virginia does not rank well in comparison with other states in the field of education.

2 Incumbents, 4 Newcomers On Council

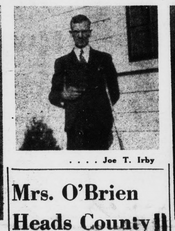
THE SIX WINNERS IN TUESDAY' TOWN ELECTION

. . . . Mrs. Calvin Robinson

. . . . T. Hunter Dickerson

. . . . John C. Caldwell

. . . . Grover E. Smith



. . . . Joe T. Irby

. . . . W. S. Gills

A record 344 voters turned out here Tuesday to cast ballots in the town election. So far as available records show, this is the largest number of ballots ever cast in a town election. There were 402 eligible to vote.

Mayor Chas. F. James was returned to office without opposition for another two-year term.

Two incumbents and four new members were chosen from a field of nine contestants to make up the six-member town council. Incumbents C. C. Poe and J. T. Almond did not offer for re-election.

The results:

For Mayor

Chas. F. James	281

For Council
(First six elected)

Mrs. Calvin Robinson	250
T. Hunter Dickerson	246
John C. Caldwell	226
Grover E. Smith	217
Joe T. Irby	200
W. S. Gills	186
Chas. T. Moses, Jr.	181
Fred H. Lawson	165
R. W. (Bobby) Mitchell	164

The new town officials will take office in September.

The record vote attributed to the fact of keen competition for the seats on the council. Two years ago, with only six candidates and no opposition on the ticket, only 61 votes were cast.

Of the four new members of the council, J. C. Caldwell and J. T. Irby have served at previous terms. Mrs. Robinson, who led in the voting will be serving her third term, and Mr. Smith his second.

District Welfare Meeting Held Here Today

The first quarterly meeting of District VII, Virginia Conference of Social Work, was held in the local American Legion Hall today.

The program topic was "Church and Social Work." Speakers were the Rev. Edwin T. Williams, of Lawrenceville, and Mrs. Mary Ruth Eaklin, of Fincastle, superintendent of the Botetourt County Welfare Department. Mrs. Wesley Peebles served as moderator.

Mrs. Hazel R. Mann, local Welfare Superintendent, extended an invitation to local persons to attend the sessions.

2,743 Listed On Eligible List

Copies of the 1955 list of Appomattox County Eligible Voters were posted this week. The 31-page list contains the names of 2,743 voters, one of the largest eligible lists the county has had. These voters are eligible, so far as payment of capitation taxes is concerned, to participate in the July 12 primary election and the November general election.

MRS. W. T. STEELE

Eligibility to Vote in Wheat Referendum June 25 Explained

In reply to many inquiries raised by farmers, the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee today explained the provisions of eligibility to vote in the June 25 wheat marketing quota referendum.

According to C. S. Rush, county ASC chairman, only those producers who will have more than 15 acres of wheat are subject to marketing quotas and subject to penalties on excess wheat. Growers who produce 15 acres of wheat or less may market their wheat free of penalty irrespective of the size of their farm allotment. Therefore only growers who are affected by quotas may vote on the question of whether they go into effect. The farmer with 15 acres or less is not affected by marketing quotas one way or another.

Mr. Rush explained that Secretary of Agriculture Benson has already announced that wheat allotments would be in effect for 1956 regardless of how growers vote in the referendum. If growers reject marketing quotas for 1956 in the referendum, there would be no penalties involved regardless of how much wheat the farm would be in excess of the allotment.

Most farmers have received their 1956 farm allotments, Mr. Rush noted. Any producer with interest in a wheat farm which has an allotment of 16 acres or more may vote in the referendum. Also any producer who intends to grow 16 or more acres of wheat for the 1956 crop may vote.

The voting place for Appomattox County will be at the ASC office in Appomattox County. The polls will be open from 9:00 A. M. until 5:00 P. M.

Date of the referendum is Saturday, June 25.

Appomattox School Ups Use of Milk

Appomattox public school pupils hve developed a taste for milk, and consumed great quaitities of grade A milk during the school term just closed. According to Mrs. L. L. Stanley, manager of the cafeteria at Appomattox High School, from Sept. 9, 1954, to June 3, 1955, the cafeteria served 67,357 half pints of milk. This averages better than 370 half pints of milk per school day. The cafeteria served the milk at a fraction less than cost as part of its luncheon menu. Patrons of the school are pleased to see more children drinking milk, and appreciate the efforts of the cafeteria in that direction.
